THE ISSUE JOINED

With Mr. Riley's resignation as his seat as member for Gleichen, and his attack upon Mr. Sifton, the Alberta political situation enters on a new phase. Mr. Cushing has telegraphed his approval of Mr. Riley's course. The leaders of the movement against Mr. Rutherford have turned their guns on the new premier and the fight will continue between the forces of the government on the one hand and the followers of Mr. Cushing, allied with Mr. Bennett, on the other. The Capital was certain that this would happen. Those who entered upon a campaign, prompted in the first place by personal ambition or sectional feeling, were not likely to be satisfied with the change in the administration that the last week has brought forth. The new premier and his colleagues will have to deal with them.

As to what the final result will be this paper is not for a moment in doubt. The cabinet has behind it the solid body of the supporters of the old administration, constituting a majority of the House. In addition it has with it the moderate and reasonable members of the insurgent body, those whose motives no one has thought of challenging, even though one failed to approve of the stand which they took. One of these gentlemen, Mr. McLean, is a member of Mr. Sifton's cabinet. Others have been prompt in assuring him of their loyal support. With a leader of force and ability and a large and united following in the legislature, the government's future is assured. It will emerge from the test to which it will soon be submitted much stronger in every way than was its predecessor, for from the first that of Mr. Rutherford possessed elements of weakness, which could not help, as time went on, bringing disaster. When any party has an overwhelming majority, look out for trouble from within the ranks. Mr. Sifton and his colleagues will have to do hard fighting but they will be all the better for it.

The fact that Mr. Riley is the insurgent to resign in order to test the feeling of his constituents, is not difficult to explain. His constituency borders on Calgary, where the sentiment against the government is assumed to be stronger than elsewhere in the province, and it has been looked upon in the straight party fights of other elections as doubtful. With the Conservative vote now in his favor, he doubtless counts on a large majority when he comes forward for re-election. Whether his hopes are justified or not, this much is certain, that no more favorable fighting ground could have been chosen by those opposing Mr. Sifton.

As for the letter in which Mr. Riley announces his intentions, it has all the ring of his speeches in the legislature, where there was no more violent opponent of the old government or one who allowed personal animos to show more clearly through every utterance. His criticism of the new premier and of the Lieutenant-Governor is absolutely unjustified. Some one had to carry on the King's government and one of the principal functions of the King's representative is to select in a time of political crisis the man who is most likely to command a majority of the elected representatives of the people and who is accordingly best entitled to have the work of administration entrusted to his charge. The Lieutenant-Governor, in such an emergency, must simply act according to his best judgment. He is not infallible, and it makes a mistake to call him so. But even Mr. Riley does not claim that a majority of the members are not supporting the Lieutenant-Governor's choice. To talk, therefore, as he does, about the "nervous work" and the "political jugglery" of which these two gentlemen were "the prime instigators," is to insult the intelligence of those whom he is addressing.

LET MR. McDOUGALL IMITATE MR. RILEY

If we are to have a fair test of public opinion on the issues of provincial politics, it is not in the interests of fairness to have it made only in a constituency where the insurgent leaders believe they have the best chance of success. Mr. Riley of Calgary has resigned as a measure of protest. Why should not his colleague in political opposition, Mr. McDougall, of Edmonton, do the same? Mr. Riley is evidently very confident that his constituents will justify the course which he has taken. It surely cannot be that Mr. McDougall is any the less so. By all means let us have a test made, but don't restrict it to one section of the province. If Mr. McDougall believes that he represents the opinion of the people of Edmonton, he should not hesitate.

IT IS TO LAUGH

Cut Caved His Life
Mr. Pen—They say the streets in Boston are frightfully crooked?
Mr. Hubb—They are. Why, do you know, when I first went there I could hardly find my way around.
"That must be embarrassing."
"It is. The first week I was there I wanted to get rid of an old cat we had, and my wife got me to take it to the river a mile away."

"And you lost the cat all right."
"Lost nothing! I never would have found my way home if I hadn't followed the cat!"—Yonker's Statesman

Bewilderment

New Maid—Please, mmm, there's a man at the door come to collect on something yet bought on the installment plan.

Miss—Ask him whether it's the encyclopedia, the phonograph, the brass bed, the piano, or the sewing machine.—Harper's Bazar.

Turn on the Tears

"Madam, if you had a child to weep over," suggested the lawyer, "the alimony might be bigger."

"But I have none."

"At least you have a dog?"
"Alas, no."
"Then there's nothing else to do. We'll have to take the rubber plant into court."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

The Silver Lining

Andrew Carnegie at a dinner in Washington, deplored the world's excessive armaments.
"All these things are wanted on battlefields," he said, "are declared to do good in providing work, in creating prosperity. That is a shallow and false optimism."

"That, in fact, reminds me of the man who said, when his wages were cut down:

"Well, there's one comfort, when I'm laid up sick I won't lose as much money as I used to."—Detroit Free Press.

Young Pessimist

Sympathetic lady (to girl who sat on street, holding screaming child)—
"What is the baby crying for, my child?"

"I dunno; it's always crying; never come around anywhere you 'ot looks upon the dark side of things as 'e does."—Punch.

Right

"Now, then, children," said the teacher, "what is it we want most in this world to make us perfectly happy?"

"The things we ain't got," shouted the bright boy in the back seat.

Infatuated

"Likes to hear himself talk, doesn't he?"
"Does he? Say, if he talked in his sleep, he'd stay awake all night!"—Cleveland Leader.

The Kiss of War

Jim—"I thought you and Ethel had had a quarrel?"
Her—"We have. I hate her!"
Jim—"But I saw you kiss each other when you met yesterday."

Her—"Yes, but that's all we do. We hardly speak."—Cleveland Leader.

Oh, Very Careful

Lodger (to landlady)—But your little girl is reading your lodgers' letters.
Landlady—"Oh, that's all right. I don't let her see what will do her any harm."

Too Many Luxuries

Judge—Why did you burn your house down, just after getting it insured?
Farmer—Your Honor, a poor man like me can't afford to have a barn and an insurance too.—Megendorfer Blatter.

A Lingering Death

An English soldier supposed to have been killed in India was entered on the books of his company—
"Died on the 24th of June," etc.
A few days afterwards it turned out that he was still alive, and the honest sergeant made the following entry:—
"Died by mistake."
"I'll length there came a letter from the Minister of War, announcing the death of the man at the hospital, when the sergeant recorded the fact as follows:—
"Re-died by order of the Ministry."—Louisville Herald.

Spring in the City

There's a lad sellin' bird-whistles made out of lead;
There's a Greek boy with violet-clumps dig as your head;
There's a promise of buds on the patient old trees;
There's a whisper of Spring in the smoke-laden breeze;
There's a croon in the air;
There's a hand-organ throbbin' through Madison Square;
And the childer are dancin' on cobble and flag;
And the Avenue is throbbin' wid the horn from a drag!

There's a wee sparrow chirpin' as glad as a lark,
And daffodils show in the beds av the Park;
And the girls have such posies and pinks on their heads,
Y'd be dreamin' their hats were all hysynth beds!
There's a rumble of wheels and the roar av a car,
And the patter of hoofs, and the odor av art;
And the riveters, high on yon sky-scraper hills,
Are all rappin' an tappin' like wood-pecker hills;
And the house-widows open an' doors slavin' shut,
And there's clatter and dust, and the devil knows what!

But in faith, I would give it, the first and the last,
For wan glimpse av the ould Springs over an' past;
For the call av the cuckoo, the peewit's ould cry;
And the purr av moorlands against the ould sky,
And the loch and the heather, and the green av the glen,
And the ould sleepy moor-town, wid-out a traneen!
—Arthur Stringer, in the Bellman.

The Wall of a Bachelor

I am a most unlucky man
In matters of the heart,
From youth it's been my wish to play
A matrimonial part;
I must have popped a hundred times
And in a hundred ways,
But all to no avail, a bachelor
I'll have to end my days.

My first love, I remember well;
Miss Sharp, her I adored;
But when I asked to be her mate
She threw me overboard.
Miss Come was next; I told her this
For her I pined, but she said:
"I'd as a husband she desired,
She'd never pinch on me."

I asked Miss Page to be my bride;
She turned my down, alas!
Miss Wicks made light of my request,
Miss Hay said, "Go to grass!"
Miss Bird I begged to fly with me
But she would give no hope;
Miss Mellen listened to my plea,
But said: "I cantelope."

Miss Soule refused her heart to give,
Miss King my queen to be,
In vain I begged Miss Felt to melt,
Miss Leach to stick to me,
Miss Pond threw water on my hopes,
Miss Cane retired her hand;
I tried to pop to Miss Beach,
But did not have the sand.

Miss Pot I asked to cook my beans,
Miss Lodge with me to dwell;
I told Miss Laid I'd be her man
I tried to ring Miss Bell;
And thus from maid to maid I went
Proposing but in vain;
Alas! a lonely bachelor
I'm destined to remain.
—G. H. W., in Boston Transcript.

Her Bargain

Down the alley, full and clear,
Comes the peddler's piercing yell:
"New potatoes, carrots here!
Rhubarb, lettuce, I've to sell.
Onions, spinach, cress and greens,
Celery with tender hearts,
Peas and cabbage, fresh string beans!"
Practicing his daily arts.

Busy housewives pause and each
Beckons to the huckster man:
"Him perchance she'll not overreach
But she'll do the best she can
Primed for bargains, all alert—
"Lettuce? Yessum, as you see,
Crisp and curling, cheap as dirt,
It's as fresh as fresh can be."

"Well," says some, "let's discuss—
Here is some that suits me well—
Prices of asparagus:
What's the least hat you will sell?"
"Eight cents for a bunch of chat."
Answers then the huckster meek,
Pushing back his heavy hat:
"It's the best I've had this week."

Seeming with herself to strive
Stands the woman for a while,
Which were his first starts to race. Six Shooter will make the season at Mr. Spore's farm, St. Albert Trail, Edmonton and should meet with a liberal patronage by farmers and gentlemen wishing to raise first-class hunters and carriage horses.

ANGELS SHUT OUT ESKIMOS, HEINRICH IN FINE FORM

Score 6 to 0 and Home Team Never Very Dangerous—Chesty in Game.

It is with extreme reluctance that we take our pen in hand to chronicle the sombre events of last evening. Well, we started off by cheating old Jupiter Pluvius out of two hours. The old cuss had been having things his own way for the last couple of days, but we put one over on him yesterday. At least Bill Morrow did.

At 6:15 the sun was shining brightly so about 700 fans, fans and fanlies tripped gaily down the hill to see the Brandon Angels get their wings clipped. But somehow or other, the Eskimos got on their feet and the much-lashed of shearing was not on the menu. In place of this celebrated dish, the Angels got busy with their little whitehead pail and sundae tin, and the Eskimos' nice new uniforms. The grand sublime sneaker was Heinie Heinrich, the celebrated Scotch side-wheeler from Aberdeen. He was ably assisted by a crew of Irishmen named Roddy, Dollstream, Dues and O'Brien. The angelic visitors garnered twelve hits off Tom Thumbl Dell, and made the circuit of the bases on six successive occasions, already yet so soon. You ask, gentle reader, what were the Eskimos doing all this long time? Not very much, we regret to report. Occasionally they made a hit, and in the sixth and ninth they made two, but there was nothing doing in the line of runs. Bill Lassie and Chesty Cox were the only local talent to nest at third, and at third they stayed. Goodness, but it was sad, and while speaking obituarily we might also add that some of Dell's pitching verged rather on the mediocre. He struck out ten men to Heinrich's five, but glance at the base on ball column. Free transportation was handed to six, one gentlemanly visitor was injured on the elbow, and two wild pitch added to the riot. Then, to repeat ourselves, there were twelve safe hits.

Visitors Look Good

The battery work of Heinrich and Cooper was as good as any seen here this year. The pitcher is the same old Heinie and bends them over the fan like a ringmaster's whip. His control is perfect. That man Cooper should not be overlooked when knops are being handed out. He receives in faultless style, and has some jugging arm. Bill O'Brien is playing a nice game at short and gets them in to first with great accuracy. The other members of the team shape up well, and they impressed the fans last evening, as being much stronger than Winnipeg.

The Eskimo Team

Our boys presented about the strongest line-up, they have had this year. Chesty Cox was in right and maybe the fans didn't give him the good hand. Moose Baxter was jumping around second base like a youngster and will do there all right. But his are needed to win games and they were not forthcoming last evening.

How Maroons Scored

Dell got away bad by walking Dollstream and Roddy, but we got the man with the watery moustache at first. Sully died to Moose and Cooper hit to centre. Chesty nailed the high offering of Mr. Bues and the first gasp was over.

After Bill O'Brien had fallen by the wayside, Carnegie Dell handed prize packages to Woods and Heinie, and Dollstream hit past Lussi. Roddy, Dues, Heinie and Sully were all out to third. Harford struck out at home who snatched Dollstream at second. Still no runs. Sully and Cooper fled out in the third and then Bues binged a three-bagger over Chesty's head which made our new gardener think he was felling with the Miners again. Dell couldn't hear to have Bues so near and kindly tore off a wild pitch which did the trick. O'Brien got second on Lussi's aeroplane home and Woods whiffed.

They Get One

The Angels got two in the fourth on hits by Harford and Sullivan, a stolen base and a charity. And at that Dell fanned two.

The fifth was barren of runs and ditty the sixth. In the seventh, Sully, Morrow's hired man, lassoed an out on Cooper's safety. Bues sacrificed by Woods and Heinie. Dell fanned three men in the eighth and was touched up for a hit by Cooper, his third for the day.

Even to the last. The aversions Angels exacted the full pound of flesh and chalked up a brace in the final innings. O'Brien and Woods hit safely and Heinie sacrificed them along. Deacon then pulled off his first error in a month of Sundays and O'Brien scored Roddy grounded second to first, Woods crossing the plate on the out. Harford fanned.

Umpire Brown's work was not of the finished style we desire. In fact his judgment on balls and strikes was very much to the fringe.

ST. GEORGES TIE CALLIES.

The best match up to date in the City League was played last evening between St. Georges and Callies when they battled until full time neither team had the advantage. The final score was 2-2 and over 1,000 spectators witnessed the game. An unfortunate accident occurred when Bill and Lovelock had a head-on collision. The former received a cut over the eye which required the doctor's skill, while Lovelock got a bad knock over the ear, but was able to finish out the game. Mr. Atkinson headed the game in his usual capable manner.

The teams lined up: St. Georges (2)—Goal, P. Todd; Def., McKenzie and McDonald; Forwards, Davis, A. Todd, Wright, Finlay and Christie.

Callies A.—Goal, P. Todd; Def., McKenzie and McDonald; Forwards, Davis, A. Todd, Wright, Finlay and Christie. The half-time score was 1-0 in the Callies favor, Davis getting the score. Christie made the score 2-0 at the beginning of the second half and gave the St. Georges an uphill fight to face. The two teams will meet again on July 6th.

BRAD CHAMPION AGAIN.

London, June 3.—James Brad, the Walton Heath professional, won the French golf championship this afternoon, defeating Armand Massey, the brilliant French player, by two strokes. Brad, the latter being runner up. The scores were: Brad 28; Massey 30.

HATTERS GET THOMPSON

Manager Hamilton has been after Cecil Thompson for the last two seasons and at last he has landed him. Thompson held down first base for Brandon last year, and Hamilton offered to trade Paddy Welsh and Ward for him, but the offer was turned down. All winter, the astute Billy was angling for the great hitter and it will bring joy to the hearts of the fans to learn that he left Spokane for the Hat on Wednesday morning accompanied by Fletcher Whisman. Thompson made more than 100 runs and three baggers than any man in the league last year. The acquisition of Thompson will mean another shift of the infield. Schaefer may go to second or third—Medicine Hat Times.

MAY SUTTON WON EASILY

Defeated Miss Hotchkiss, U. S. Lady Champion, in two Straight Sets

Los Angeles, June 3.—Before a crowd numbering close to 10,000, May Sutton, woman tennis champion of the world, defeated Hazel Hotchkiss, champion of the United States, in their match game yesterday. It was an even match, one each, until Miss Sutton, by resorting to the powerful deep court driving that has enabled her to vanquish all opponents, took the concluding set 6-3. Miss Sutton had the enthusiasm aroused was remarkable. The area around the Mount Washington courts, on which the sets were played, was so badly crowded that both players frequently complained of feeling stifled. Both girls were liberally applauded. It was apparent that the sympathy of the throng was with the Berkeley champion.

Miss Hotchkiss was easily Miss Sutton's superior in one of the latter's strong points—volleying at the net, and she won the second set 6-4, by using this style of play. Miss Hotchkiss showed a lack of her former dash, and frequently neglected to go after tantalizing angle drives. In the second set, Miss Hotchkiss won after everything, and throughout the set kept one game to the good. It was an uphill struggle for the Berkeley girl in the concluding set. The heat of the day, combined with the heat of the play, and the excitement, weakened her, and she lost the first five games, but rallied at length, and with clever backhand volleys, won the long Sutton drives took the three final games.

WHOLESALE BEAT Y.M.C.A.

The city baseball league commenced with a 100 to 1 shot taking the first game. The contending teams were Y.M.C.A. and Wholesale, and the talent fancied the Y's, who have shown such excellent form in their exhibition games. But the dark horses Cleveland and Wholesale moved on an easy victory by 12 to 2.

The game was played at Taylor Park and started late. In consequence the amateurs were only able to worry through five innings before darkness drew a veil over the disgruntled amateurs. Miller started pitching and was hit hard by the Wholesale. In fact, the twelve runs were made off his flinging Jack Knott twisted the fourth and fifth with great success, holding his opponents scoreless. The score by innings was:

Wholesale	6	30	12	8

CALLIES' COMMITTEE.

A special meeting of the selection committee of the Caledonian Football Club will be held in the Pipers' Practice Hall, Macdougall avenue, on Saturday night at 8:30 p.m. The business on hand is the selecting of teams to play against Strathcona at Strathcona and against North Edmonton at North Edmonton. Both games on Monday, 6th. Both teams are away from home on that date.

GILLETTE MADE BREAK

San Francisco, June 3.—Jack Johnson could not overcome his desire to give his new 90-horsepower auto a try-out yesterday and as a result no work was done at his training camp at Ocean Beach. Johnson and his manager, Little, were worried over the study to the effect that Governor Gillette had declared the fight an arrangement and fake and would make Jeffries winner. Gillette says he never made such an assertion.

It Will Be the Simple Life for Him in the Future—Is 33 Years Old

Chicago, June 3.—Frank Gotch says he will retire now to his farm in Iowa. In a statement after his defeat of Zbyszko last night he said: "I am now through with the wrestling game. I am 33 years old and it will be the simple life for me in the future. A good many wrestlers have waited too long and been beaten. I am going to try to avoid that. The first fall with Zbyszko came as I had hoped. The second was hard, but as tough as a bout as I have been in. There was no time wasted or I could not have thrown the Pole as I did. I will leave for the coast and see if I can help Jeffries out, and then there will be a long rest coming to me."

ATHLETIC MEETING

There will be an important meeting held at the Y. M. C. A. on Monday evening at 8:30. The business to be transacted is the question of sending a representative team to participate in the Alberta A. A. Union meet, which will be held in Lethbridge on July 1st (Dominion Day). Two representatives are requested from the I.C.A.A.A., Callies, Police and Y. M. C. A.

WHEN BASEBALL STARTED HERE

Diamond Park Was Formerly a Vegetable Garden Belonging to Donald Ross

To those Edmonton fans of 1910 who look upon Diamond Park as an artificial ball park, the following from the Saturday News of February 23, 1907, will be interesting inasmuch as it tells of the fact that the park and also shows the fact that people would be able to see the games for nothing from the hill. But now it is in the empty freight cars that the dead-heads congregate. The article says:

"The land at the foot of the hill on First street, which so long has been used by Donald Ross as a vegetable garden, has been leased for a term of five years to the baseball club. Work will begin on the erection of a grand stand at an early date. The management was able to make an excellent bargain, owing to the interest in the game manifested by Mr. Ross and Mr. Hosten, who had the land leased for a long time. The location that has been urged is that it will give those who wish to watch the games from the top of the hill a fine chance to get out of paying the admission fee. But the grand stand, which will be erected on the view to be obtained from the height of land will not be a very satisfactory one. Those who wish to stand on the hill all the afternoon for the sake of occasionally seeing centre field gather in long lines will be welcome to the cheap pleasure they may get."

GIANTS LOSE WILTSE.

New York, June 4.—It became known today that Wiltsie, the Giants' great southpaw, had so badly injured his pitching arm while practising on the Brooklyn grounds Saturday that he will be out of the game indefinitely. Surgeons who examined it to played said it was badly dislocated. Coming on the heels of the injury to Amos' pitching arm, the accident to Wiltsie is a hard blow to the Giants.

ROSEBUD WON OAKS.

Epsom, Eng. June 3.—The Oaks to-day was won by Sir W. Bass' Rosebud, who finished third in the One Thousand Guineas, starting 7 to 1. J. Musker's Evolution was second and Red Walker's Terza was third. The favorites, Winkpool and Maid of Corinth, were unplaced, the other also rans being Thalia, Lily Rose, Yellow Slave, The Jade, Eud and Salve.

SNATCHED AT HOME PLATE HOW DOES HEINIE DO IT?

A Few Odd Sayings About Things in General and the Shut-Out in Particular.

"Brown's in Town."

'Tis rumored that Fred J. Whitcroft was the Jonah.

Dell's pitching is like the curate's egg; good in spots.

Deacon made his first error last evening. It must be that new red shirt, Deak, that is the hoodoo.

"Is he coming or going?" asked the bleacherites as Mr. Morrow tipped to the coaching box.

The Maroons have Beer while the Angels have Bues. No need to go dry on those teams.

What position does the human skeleton, Morrow, play on the Brandon team? Centre rush?

The C. N. R. kindly provided two box cars for its patrons last night. The attendance was only fair.

Rabbit Sturgeon has been released by the Hat. Shaffer will play third as soon as Thompson arrives for first base.

Must say we like Cooper as a catcher. And maybe he isn't there with the hitting stuff! Heinie and Cooper are a good pair to draw to.

Double-header today at 3:00 and 6:30. Dellard and Derechto will do the flinging and we should stow both games in our hat bag.

Manager-elect Lynch of Lethbridge seems to be delivering the goods. Another win last night, and just think, Pich pitched. Honest, he did.

Curse you, Bill Morrow, with your smooth ways and winning manner. And how Robust Will did enjoy the evening, as a general favor around the sun into second place.

Derechto, the new side-wheeler warmed up last evening and will fling one of today's games. May he prove another Heinie-rich is the wish of all the local fans.

Geehan won from the Maroons last evening. Wonder what the Winnipeg average will be when they return home? Deacon's red shirt will be given as a prize to the nearest guesser.

WOMEN ON THE FARMS

Almost 1,000,000 women in the United States are either farmers or farm laborers. Thanks to the popularity of the homestead in the west and to a belated appreciation of agriculture as a field for women's industry, this number is rapidly increasing. The United States, however, has not gone so far in this respect as England. There, in the dairy sections, women have entire control of the herds, not only in butter making, but the milking and feeding. In France nearly 3,000,000 women are engaged in dairy work, while in most of the countries of continental Europe the inner breeds of cattle are mainly the result of women's efforts—New Idea Woman's Magazine.

Rostand's Love of Animals
The French Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals has invested M. Edmond Rostand with the highest diploma for having written "Chanticleer."
M. Rostand has replied with a long letter, in which he accuses the diploma and in which he says that he has always had a passionate love for animals and all dumb creatures and that he is much prouder of never having made the smallest of them.
than he is of having made the poultry yard speak.

REPLANTING MAINE FORESTS

If that experiment of planting Norway spruce at Madrid is successful there would seem to be no good reason why the future timber supply of Maine could not be preserved. Planting forests trees has become commercially profitable in Europe and surely will here. This is the first attempt of the kind in New England. Should the success that seems likely to result from the work in Maine it will be extended to other states of suitable temperature and climatic conditions. The importance and value of the work can hardly be realized. There is so much valuable unoccupied land in Maine alone that artificial forests of great magnitude can be cultivated without encroaching upon civilization, and the amount of wealth that may be undoubtedly will be added to the wild lands and abandoned farms in Maine alone is difficult to estimate.—Lewiston Journal

Glasgow Getting Sober

The Glasgow chief constable, in a report issued, comments upon the remarkable increase of sobriety in the city. "Apprehensions for drunkenness have since 1906, a decrease of considerably over four thousand. While lack of money has no doubt contributed to increased sobriety, the chief constable states that the growth of temperance has been a great factor. A great deal of money has been spent on amusements which was just as available for spending on drink. Compared with two years ago the apprehensions for drunkenness showed a decrease of nearly 7,000—London Mail.

The Cow and the Corset Steel

An autopsy performed today on Austin S. Young's valuable Holstein cow, which died suddenly yesterday at German Valley, N.J., revealed that the bovine had swallowed a corset stay. In spite of his grief and chagrin the cow, has dropped into verse and placed a testimonial for the cow's grave, with this epitaph:
This faithful cow we loved so much
Has gone to pass away.
A corset steel cut short her life—
It was not hers to stay.
The steel was ten inches long, and had pierced the cow's heart. It is assumed it hurt cruelly. However, the Holstein didn't have to read the verse.—New York Press.

When the Women Vote

The cook met at the polls her mistress.
"Here, at all events, you've got nothing on me!" exclaimed the former daintily, but with dignity.
"Except a hat, a wrap, a silk petticoat, and the Lord only knows what else!" retorted the latter, somewhat tartly.
For there are conditions which no merely political revolution can alter.—Puck.

Faithful, Although Mistaken

The affectionate loyalty of dogs is always pleasant to read about, even when, as in the instance recorded by Mr. Woodgate in the "Reminiscences" of an old Sportsman, their devotion is a little annoying to the master. The story is of a pair of spaniels, belonging to Mr. Woodgate's younger brother.

One day the spaniels accompanied Gerald and Austin to bathe in the "New" Pool, the only secluded place of the chain of artificial lakes. The younger boy, Austin, put on an old straw hat in the water. It tore to pieces.

After the bath they separated, one going to a friend's house, for lunch, the other going home.
Gerald was dressed first, and started the dogs following him. Presently, observing that Austin was not following, the spaniels raced back to hurry him up.

Meanwhile Austin had completed dressing, and had thrown his tattered straw hat into the pond, jumped the mill "dead" where it was narrow, and so departed.
The dogs sought for him. The jump over the "lead" apparently foiled the scent; the tattered hat floated visibly in the pool, and seemed to tell a tale of disaster. The dogs plunged in. The hat had no one under it. They dived and quested in vain.

Hours passed. The forgoers observed them there at work; and when forgo hours were over, rumor reached the village that dogs were needed in "New" Pool, to find the remains of Master Austin Woodgate, whose straw hat was floating there, and the rectory spaniels swimming round it.

Gerald went and tried to call the dogs off. They declined to come. In such an emergency it was no longer in their opinion, a matter of seniors' priors. They stuck to their quest. There was nothing to be done but to send up Austin to fetch them. As soon as they were satisfied that he was no ghost they came home complacently to their supper.

Cook in Comfort

You no longer need wear yourself out with the weakening heat of an intensely hot kitchen. You can cook in comfort.

New Perfection Oil Cook-stove entirely removes the discomfort of cooking. Apply a match and immediately the stove is ready. Instantly an intense heat is projected upwards against the pot, pan, kettle or boiler, and yet there is no surrounding heat—no smell—no smoke.

Why? Because the New Perfection Oil Cook-Stove is scientifically and practically perfect. You cannot use too much wick—it is automatically controlled. You get the maximum heat—no smoke. The burner is simple. One wick with a cloth cleans it—consequently there is no smell.

The New Perfection Oil Cook-Stove is wonderful for year-round use, but especially in summer. Its heat operates upward to pan, pot, or kettle, but not beyond or around. It is useful for heating a room.
It has a Cabinet Top with shelf for keeping plates and food hot. The bright blue of the chimneys, makes the stove ornamental and attractive. Made with 1, 2 and 3 burners; the 2 and 3-burner stoves can be had with or without Cabinet.

The Poor Marry Too Young

A Bad State of Affairs at Present Prevails in Great Britain

Certain conditions which have helped to create the call for a "poor" divorce court in England are graphically portrayed by a writer in a London daily.

A few days since, as I entered a London police court—surely the saddest place on earth—a young girl was being charged with disorderly conduct in the streets in the early hours of the morning. She seemed to be a mere slip of a child, and, indeed, she gave her age as sixteen. But—and this is the serious fact which should make the most easy-going of people pause and reflect—she described herself and described herself truly, as a widow.

Upon another occasion, when present at the same police court, I had heard a husband defend himself upon a summons for maintenance. The complainant was his wife, who carried a baby in her arms. But—and here again is the cardinal feature of the situation—the husband was only 18 and the wife and mother 17 years of age.

Dismal Failures

The story in this case was just the same old-story which has always cropped up in these dismal courts. They had married upon a combined capital of seven shillings and sixpence; the bits of rubbish they called furniture had been secured on the hire system by the payment of a shilling on account; the girl knew nothing of the duty of the housekeeper—she could neither cook, nor sew, nor wash, but she could, and did, lie in bed until the afternoon; and the lad, who had apparently married to secure someone who would care for and conduct this most primitive and hopeless of homes, had quickly discovered his dismal failure, cleared out of the place, and, as a matter of fact, deserted her within three months of the marriage.

Thousands Like These

Such a ghastly tale as this is no exception. There are hundreds—may there be thousands—of such marriages made every year. There are, today, in this great London of ours—this centre, as we say, of the world's civilization—some 14,000 married persons who are under twenty years of age. Nor is it London alone which is to blame. In the great provincial cities and in the huge industrial districts of the Midlands and the North the same evil is spreading. There are in England and Wales alone 8,000 married persons who are under age.

In London, here, we may tolerate or blush for the wives and widows of fifteen and sixteen years, and the 10,000 wives and widows who are under twenty. So, too, with the husbands who embrace matrimony at sixteen and number thousands before they are 21; but it is their influence on the England of tomorrow and of next year and the years to follow?

For, unfortunately, it is just those who are least able to earn a living who marry at the earliest ages. It is among the unskilled laborers that we find the premature husbands; among the thriftless girls the immature wives. The poverty areas exhibit this to demonstration. In Lambeth, for example, there are 200 married couples aged 19, 250 aged 20, and 650 aged 21; in Islington, 250 aged 20, 670 aged 20, and 800 aged 21; while in Stepney there are 400 aged 19, 1,000 aged 20, and 1,000 aged 21.

What is the result of this linking of the young together in imprudent and premature marriage? What other results can we expect to find? In London's workhouses—and in London's slums you meet with these child-wives and boy-husbands. In the prisons, indeed, out of a total of 800 persons who are under age, more than 200 are married.

Wedded for Short Term

Not only in the prisons and workhouses do they expiate their unhappy folly—though at the latest inquiry it was found that all the husbands of sixteen were either in a hospital or jail! But they separate as readily as they come together, and with less ceremony. Of the London husbands who are under age more than 200 are not living with their wives. Work at a distance may be responsible for a percentage of these; but crime and poverty can claim the great majority. And both husbands and wives separate to form other alliances.

Nor, as I have already said, in London alone does this social error prevail. In Lancashire and Cheshire there are 10,000 married persons under age, in Yorkshire 8,000, in the Midlands 7,500. In fact, the provinces prove on analysis to be more reckless even than London.

Is There No Hope?

What can be done to stem this social disease—contracted in improvidence and ignorance, developed in prisons, workhouses and hospitals, and penetrating with a cancerous growth throughout the poorer classes of the country? Social reformers bewail it, doctors point with warning fingers to the new generation such marriages will produce; and patriots fling up their hands in despair at the prospect.

Until this problem is seriously assailed, we must admit that we are in this in some other respects, a nation decayed.

It is not possible to take a leaf out of the book of our continental neighbors, and impose some legislative restriction on those marriages, which, if they do not spell race suicide, at least ensure race decay?

Not Table Legs, but Human Legs—Surgeon Announces Wonderful Discovery

TRIES IT ON THE DOG

But Is Sure That It Will Work Just as Well With Humans

Chicago, June 4.—Dr. Victor D. Lespinasse of the Northwestern university medical school announced in a lecture recently that he had discovered a surgical secret which would enable him to save life and modify suffering. In a broad sense he said that it is a successful method of reuniting blood vessels and arteries and battling arterial diseases.

To prove that his claim was not merely theory, the doctor caused several dogs to be brought forth for inspection. Each was cited as an example of a peculiar operation. The livers had been removed and re-united, the bones had been broken and put off and re-grafted to others. Other animals appeared to have been generally cut up and reconstructed at the physician's will.

The secret, Dr. Lespinasse explained, consisted in his successful reuniting of severed arteries. The joining of arteries and blood vessels had been considered the bane of successful surgical operations.

Dr. Lespinasse declared that his next step will be in the line of grafting limbs of other animals for those lost. He expressed confidence that he could obtain the same results with human beings as with animals, and said the fact was in his position that his methods universally without fear of failure. He explained that his method of joining arteries was by the use of magnesium rings, which are dissolved easily in the blood.

"I have not yet been experimenting extensively at grafting," he told the physicians. "My work has been in re-planting that is, putting back limbs and organs of the same animal from which they were taken. But with the success I have had the way looks clear for grafting."

"In my opinion the amputation of limbs will be very much less frequent than formerly, as many operations which have been forced by the inability to find a way to join the injured arteries together again."

SEES DANGER IN BOY SCOUT IDEA

Says That it Lowers Moral Standard and Confuses Ethical Judgment of Boys

Chicago, June 4.—Jenkin Lloyd Jones, in an address at All Souls' church, criticized the plan to organize "boy scouts" in the public schools. "We should look with distrust and scrutinize with relentless integrity this recent movement to lend glamour to war in the minds of our boys," he said.

"Yesterday there was held a meeting in Chicago to consider the feasibility of organizing our schoolboys into companies of military scouts. I honor the men who are reported as interested in this movement. I see clearly the advantages, physical and otherwise, that come from rigid discipline, the esprit de corps that goes with the regiment of a well ordered camp, but all these advantages are but trifles compared with the incalculable injury done to the moral perspective of the boy, the false glamour it throws around an obsolete element in civilization, an outgrown function in society.

"Whatsoever is good in military discipline must be found in other ways. Surely in this age of pedagogy there must be ways of obtaining these advantages without lowering the moral standard and confusing the ethical judgment of our boys, giving a much heroism pre-eminence in the ideals of our youth over the real heroism and the true valor of the modern man."

Point of View

Apropos of J. Pierpont Morgan's immense resources as shown in his recent offer of $100,000,000, whereunto to build more New York suburbs, a broker said:

"Mr. Morgan's wealth caused him to look at money in a large way. Once at the Metropolitan Club, in Fifth avenue, I told him of the death of a mutual friend."

"How much did he leave?" Mr. Morgan asked.

"A matter of $5,000,000 or $6,000,000, I believe," said I.

Mr. Morgan's eyebrows lifted.

"How deceptive circumstances sometimes are," he said, "I always supposed him quite comfortably off."—New York Press.

THE KING'S ANCESTRY

The genealogy of George V. on his father's side is now fairly well known to all who take any interest in such matters, but his ancestry on his mother's side has not been so much noted in detail. His grandfather, Christian IX., was before he became King, Prince Christian of the Duchy of Schleswig-Holstein-Sonderburg-Beckburg, the fourth son of the reigning duke. His title to the throne rested on a treaty entered into in 1842 by several of the great powers, in whose opinion it was in the interests of the "balance of power," that Denmark should remain an independent monarchy. Then reigning King, Frederick VII., had no living direct heirs, and Prince Christian was named his successor because his wife was a piece of King Christian VII. and a cousin of King Frederick VII.

The agreement embodied in this treaty was ratified in 1853 by the Danish Parliament. Frederick VII. was the last monarch of the House of Oldenburg, which began with Christian I. in 1448, and endured through sixteen reigns, and a little more than four centuries. Prior to his accession, the throne had been occupied by the line of which Sweden and Canada, who figure in the history of Saxon England, were early members, and which was continuous for nearly five centuries. If the line of descent were perfectly traced it would probably show that King George V. is a descendant of King Canute, as he certainly is, as well as of the older King Alfred.

NEW BOY SCOUTS ARE FOR PEACE

Rival Organization Formed as a Protest Against Militarism of the Other

NATIONAL PEACE SCOUTS

Baden-Powell's Organization Is Declared to Operate in Direction of Conscription

London, June 4.—For some time past a movement has gone on quietly, but none the less successfully, for counteracting the military side of the Boy Scout movement. A body known as the National Peace Scouts, is already in existence, with between 60,000 and 100,000 members, who can constitute a boy's order of chivalry, free from all militaristic character, and concerned only in the promotion of the mental, moral and physical well-being of boys.

Among the promoters of the movement is Sir Francis Vane who saw service as a volunteer in the Boer war, and in 1886 raised the first corps of Working Boy Cadets. It will be understood, therefore, that Sir Francis's objections to militarism is, in the case of Boy Scouts only where there has been a departure from the original aim of the movement as a training in civil discipline.

"The idea is," says Sir Francis, "that the National Peace Scouts shall have no reference whatever to our warlike preparations, and they will not act as a link in our scheme of defence. We have no sympathy with that side of the Boy Scout movement which operates in the direction of conscription. We teach the boy to look upon all nations as people working out their own salvation, as brother nations, not necessarily antagonistic. We try to give a boy not only national but an international ideal. "Our aim is to save this Boy Scout movement from militarism. An endeavor was made to attach a Boy Scout to the army manoeuvres recently, and an attempt has also been made in some quarters to have them as a unit in the Territorial Army."

The National Peace Scouts council represent twelve influential societies for the education of the young, and the members of it have drawn up a scheme by which scouting is treated scientifically as an educational medium.

IT IS TO LAUGH

Tommy's Prayer

The Sunday school lesson had been on the efficacy of prayer, and the teacher had done her best to instill into the youthful minds the belief that our prayers are answered. There was one doubting Thomas, however, who insisted that he knew better.

"Why, Tommy, I am surprised to hear you say that you don't believe our prayers are answered!" expostulated the teacher.

"I know they ain't," persisted Tommy.

"What makes you think so?" asked the teacher.

"I think, I think, I know it," replied Tommy. "You know the angels brought a new baby to our house last week."

"Yes, I heard about that," said the teacher. "Now, surely, that was an answer to prayer, wasn't it?"

"It was n't!" replied Tommy disgustedly. "Why, for six months I've been praying for a goat!"—Philadelphia Bulletin.

PLEASE, MAY WE CUT OUR QUEUES

Chinamen of the Pacific Coast Send a Petition to the Emperor

DON'T LIKE OWN CLOTHES

Petition Points Out the Clothes Are Those Worn by Koreans, a Declining Nation

San Francisco, June 4.—Deprecating the wearing of queues certain Chinamen of the Pacific Coast are asking the Emperor to be allowed to discard the trailing scalp appendage and wear their hair in a white man's manner. Also would they consign to limbo the flowing robes of the Flowery Kingdom, and conform their attire exclusively to the fashion of dress of their adopted land.

Traditional respect, however, for the will of their native country's ruler restrains these moderns from hasty action on their own initiative and nothing short of an imperial rescript, it is believed of the emperor, will induce the most conservative of the local Celestials to doff their customary garb. To secure the royal permission, a memorial has been entrusted to Prince Tsai Tao, Chinese Minister and uncle of the Emperor.

Although this petition was handed the Prince on the occasion of his recent visit here reports regarding the memorial have only just come to light, though Chinatown it seems, has been buzzing with talk of it for some time. The memorial, it is said, contains these passages:

"As we look around at the various strong nations of the world, we observe that all the strong nations are without the queue. The queue is not necessary to the well-being of a man and it is exceedingly inconvenient."

"It is the custom in China to wear long robes with wide sleeves, making the Chinese look like the women of the east. The costume is like that of the Annamese and the Koreans, two nations that have perished."

"Furthermore, our whole costume—queue, long robe, wide sleeves—makes us the laughing stock of every nation with which we come in contact. "The discarding of the queue, as regards China itself, would revive the spirit of the Chinese, and, viewed by outsiders, it would be regarded as a sure sign of an awakening."

TURKISH SOLDIERS ARE GOOD FIGHTERS

Austrian Officers Declare They Equal in Fighting Strength Best in Europe

Vienna, June 4.—Whatever may be the condition of the Turks, the recent troubles in Albania have made it perfectly plain that they have not deteriorated in the slightest as fighting men. Austrian officers who have followed the campaign are loud in their praises of the splendid fighting qualities of the Turkish soldiers. The Albanians have always been regarded as the cream of the Turkish army. Many of the rebelling veterans who served in the former sultan's body guard. Yet the regulars proved their superiors, man for man, whenever they came to grips. Several officers who saw the fighting say that they did not believe there are any better soldiers in Europe than the men serving under Shekhet Pasha in Albania.

It is coming to be believed that agents of the former sultan are to blame for the Albanian uprising which might easily have precipitated a European war. Only the strongest efforts on the part of Russia, Austria and Germany have kept the Balkan kingdoms from taking a hand in the game. This would inevitably have involved the greater powers.

Not a Modern Custom

In a certain church in Philadelphia the custom has prevailed of presenting to each scholar of the Sunday school an egg during the celebration of the exercises at Easter. On one occasion of the kind the assistant superintendent arose and made this announcement: "Hymn 416, 'Begin ye Now the Blessed Day, after which the eggs will be distributed.'"

ILL-FATED MESSINA

Messina has had more than its share of the vicissitudes which befall Sicilian cities. From its foundation, 730 B.C., by Cumæan pirates on the site of a Sicilian town, until the present day, it has waged continual warfare against man and nature. Taken and retaken through hundreds of years, it was destroyed by the Carthaginians. It played an important part in the history of the island in later centuries. In 1189 it was attacked by Richard Cœur de Lion, who, with Philip Augustus, spent the winter here. In the seventeenth century the city suffered in the wars between the French and the Spanish. Its population was reduced from 120,000 to 12,000.

In 1693, the city was destroyed by an earthquake with tremendous loss of life. In 1749 a fearful plague took 40,000 lives. In 1793 a series of earthquakes culminated in a rise of the sea which destroyed nearly all of the city which had not already succumbed.

The most recent and most terrible of all was the earthquake of 1908. Of the city of 90,000 inhabitants, it is said that the bodies of perhaps 40,000 are still buried beneath the walls of houses.

KAISER WILLIAM HAS WON LONDON

Once Suspected, He Is Now Received by the People as a Friend

HOW HE ACHIEVED IT
Only by Patience and Repeated Acts of Friendliness That Overcame Dislike

London, June 4.—The Emperor William's visit struck the paramount note of public interest in London, for no other ruler fascinates the British mind as does this soldierly-vannered man. The crowds at the Victoria station when he came to King Edward's funeral greeted him silently, standing grave-faced and bowed. The Kaiser's striking features reflected the common grief of the hour as he cast serious glances right and left and acknowledged the meek tribute of the people with repeated salutes. Observing the scene, one got the impression that the Emperor William's victory over British distrust is practically complete. This means that much water has flowed under the Anglo-German bridge since the late King Edward ascended the throne. At that time the Boer war was still on, and everywhere in Germany reigned hatred and outspoken bitterness against England, all of which was cordially reciprocated by the British. Many violent clashes had taken place between the Courts of St. James and Potsdam.

Suddenly Queen Victoria's illness having been announced, Kaiser stopped all preparations to celebrate the twentieth anniversary of the Prussian monarchy and hurried to the bedside of his stricken grandmother. The act almost took the British breath away. They received the Kaiser with thinly veiled suspicion, but some days observation of him, culminating with his passage through London behind the coffin of the Queen, did much to break down distrust. Shortly afterwards it clearly appeared that the Kaiser was doing his best to ally the Anglo-German in Germany, and the relations between King Edward and Emperor William and their respective suites rapidly improved.

Anti-Germanism continued to be loudly expressed by a portion of the British press, but the British people did not seem to take the outcry too seriously. Emperor William in Germany and King Edward in England were working for peace, and the British appeared to look to them rather than to these beating the war drums. Finally the two monarchs met on German soil, and then the Kaiser came back to England, riding in brilliant state through the metropolis to be honored at the Guildhall. There he made a speech as pacific as it was eloquent, reminding his hearers that seventeen years before he had stood on the same spot and uttered the same sentiments and that during his whole reign he had done no violence to that declaration.

Then the Kaiser spent a long holiday at Bournemouth and Englishmen began to say: "This man seems to be sincere. Perhaps, after all, he does not mean to break the peace of Europe." As a result of these years of tactful and patient peacemaking on the part of William and Edward, the Kaiser's latest reception in London was marked with something much warmer than mere curiosity or respect.

BOY CAUGHT LIVE MOOSE

Stephen, Minn., June 4.—Robert Campbell's twelve year old son yesterday captured a barb wire storage house on his father's farm near here the largest cow moose seen in this district for several years. The boy saw the animal coming across the field and drove his herd of milking cows up towards it, finally heading it into the storage shed. It was captured alive and will be sent to the state zoo.

SPLENDID PARK ON VANCOUVER ISLAND

British Columbia Government Has Reserved All the Land Around Buttle's Lake

WILL PRESERVE GAME

Lake Is Distinguished for Its Magnificence and Beautiful Mountains Surrounding it

Victoria, June 4.—An order in council has been passed creating a reserve of all unalienated and unoccupied lands in the vicinity of Buttle's Lake for the purpose of the crown, this reserve covering the zone which recently has been the subject of very great interest and of numerous representations on the part of the Natural History Society, the Development League and other public bodies and private individuals.

The intention is understood to be that this reserve shall constitute a magnificent provincial national park for the people of British Columbia, easily accessible from the chief centers of population upon the completion of already projected transportation facilities, within the next few years. Buttle's Lake is rated the largest body of fresh water within Vancouver island, and is especially distinguished for the magnificence and the variety of its scenic delights, mountains, perpetually snow-crowned, rising from its dense blue waters to a height of from 7000 to 8000 feet, high, charming waterfalls, majestic glaciers, and fairy-like islands afford alluring contrasts.

It is understood to be the intention of the government to carefully preserve the game as well as the unalienated forests of this natural park, while possibly some arrangement may be made by which tourists, mountaineers may enjoy a taste of the untraveled fishing for which the lake and its tributaries are far-famed. In all the essentials of a delightful mountain and lake resort, Buttle's Lake would seem to have been especially blessed by nature. As soon as contemplated transportation facilities are provided it will be within less than half a dozen hours' travel of either Vancouver or Victoria.

AGED AUTHORESS FAVORS SUFFRAGE

Ballot Will Give Women Something With Which to Occupy Their Minds

MRS. JULIA WARD HOWE

Now Aged Ninety-One Deprecates Many of Practices of Modern Society Women

Boston, Mass., June 4.—Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, the grand old woman of America, authoress of "The Battle Hymn of the American Republic," who has just passed her 91st birthday, recently discussed the part American womanhood is playing in the twentieth century life.

Mrs. Howe believes that other women could live to be 91 easily if they shun the fast life of society and look with old-fashioned horror on the invidious and invidious cocktail. Mrs. Howe's ideas are not so old-fashioned as her precepts for living. For instance, she has lived long enough to see the enfranchisement of the women throughout the United States.

In so far as the rights of equality go Mrs. Howe believes that American women are just beginning to attain their rightful place.

"Times and conditions have certainly changed since I was a girl," said Mrs. Howe. "Some changes have been for good, others for worse. We were all shut in, and I can go back in my memory, and see myself, like a damsel of the olden times, shut up in the castle of my home."

Women Who Drink

"I have been shocked to hear of the prevalence of drinking among society women of today. The cocktail habit, as I believe it is called, is the curse of modern society. That is one of the leading phases of fast life in society. It is alarming."

"Imagine the regret with which I have heard that some women have even acquired the 'breakfast cocktail habit,' and am I right in that? I am told it is a habit of drinking before breakfast in the morning in order to acquire an appetite. I shudder to think of the harm which is done to women, not only physically but morally by this custom. Even the five o'clock tea which were once so staid and decorous have changed and liquor is associated with the delicious and delightful tea which gave the name to the fashionable repast."

Ballot for Women

"Society will change with the equal franchise of women. In recent years the wealthy matron and girl have had no way in which to spend their time but in frivolity. Their idleness led to mischief. The ballot will give them something to occupy their thoughts. They will have to stop so much time for silly and harmful pleasures that pass from some smart society."

"Happy old age comes only from health and a clear conscience. Health can only be kept by simple and quiet living. I do not deny society at all; only some of the phases of it which have grown up from the last twenty years."

Old-Fashioned Ideals

"The old-fashioned ideals are the best. Every woman who claims a certain age comes to realize this and preaches its doctrine. Give us a good old home with its easy comforts and its tranquil air of perfect peace and domestic tranquility. No divorces, no sudden voyages to Europe upon the merest whim."

"Perhaps great wealth has done much harm to American society. I do not know. It has done some harm in the manner it has caused men and women to be dissatisfied with their homes. It makes them seek the gilded hotels where one can have his hiding done by pushing a button. The hotel life today is very harmful. It makes people lazy. It removes domestic obligations."

"Some day it will be all changed. Some day all people, rich and poor alike, will realize that the old-fashioned ideas were the best after all."

NO COMMUNION WINE

Churches in Dry Districts Must Use Unfermented Grape Juice

Battle Creek, Mich., June 4.—Ministers who serve wine to their congregations hereafter will be classed as "boot leggers" in dry Calhoun county, according to Prosecuting Attorney Howard Cavanaugh's announcement. The statement was made following the application of a Marshall clergyman for a doctor's prescription to permit him to get communion wine. The local option law makes no exception in the case of wine for religious purposes, according to the prosecutor, and nothing stronger than grape juice can be served hereafter.

WHEN WIFE IS BAD CUT OFF HER NOSE

That Is the Rule Followed by Jealous Husbands in Northern India

VERY BAD, OFF GOES HEAD

Divorce Laws Are Not Needed There as Far as the Man Is Concerned

London, June 4.—After having spent eighteen months among the wild tribes of the northwest frontier of India Dr. Theodore L. Pennell, medical missionary of the Church Missionary society, has just arrived in London on a brief visit. Below are some of his remarkable experiences which he related in an interview.

"On the Afghan frontier a husband is very jealous of his wife's honor," he said, "and if he has a suspicion that anything is wrong he just cuts off her nose. Some time ago a husband had shown his displeasure in this barbarous manner brought his wife to our hospital at Bannu, and said he was very sorry. There was very little of the nose left and there was therefore nothing left that we could do."

"I told him that if he would pay the money we could get his wife a artificial nose from England. He asked how much it would cost, and I said $10. He began to hesitate and I asked him the reason. 'Well,' he said, 'I could get another wife for $200. Eventually he agreed to buy the nose and his old wife was patched up.'"

Dr. Pennell gave another illustration of matrimonial jealousy: "One day he said, an Afghan chief had been across the border and saw his wife speaking to a man over the wall in his compound. He at once drew his sword, cut off his wife's head, and threw it at the man, saying: 'If you want to speak to her now, you can.'"

Many of the patients at the hospital are the victims of frontier wars. One man who was admitted there for treatment had been shot by his uncle. The bullet had gone through his lung, and when he was brought in there seemed little hope of his recovery. However by dint of careful nursing they pulled him through. "When he was convalescent," said Dr. Pennell, "he explained that he had a petition to make. I asked him what it was. He said, 'O Sahib, I want you to give me some cartridges for,' pointing to his chest he replied 'I have this score to pay off.' I said 'I am very sorry to hear that. We have had a difficult task to cure you, and now very shortly we shall have the same trouble with your uncle.' He said: 'Oh, no, you need not be afraid of that, Sahib. I am a better shot than he is.' We did not get the uncle in, and we heard eventually that he had killed him."

DRUM SAVED THE DAY

An amusing story is told of the celebration of the third anniversary of the Mecklenburg-Schwerin, following the example of the capital, Schwerin, the municipality of a little town, decided to fire regulation salute of ten guns. An ancient cannon was accordingly hauled out for the purpose, and the firing began. The powder, however, ran short after the ninety-third shot. The burgomaster was in despair, especially as ninety-three shots indicated that the grand ducal baby was a girl.

At this moment the municipal bandmaster came forward with a luminous proposal which was eagerly accepted. He dispatched his big drummer to the market-place, where he struck eight powerful strokes on his instrument to make up the full number of shots, and thus the situation was saved.

Fair Play

It was one of those palpably cold-ham-and-pickle jams, but the motor wouldn't go so Jones and Jenks and to make the best of a bad smash and put up there.

"Accommodation, gentlemen? Certainly, gentlemen!" oozed the obliging landlady. "Beautiful large feather bed, plenty of room for both of you, and big enough for three. This way, gentlemen!"

They went, they saw, she granted. It certainly wasn't much of a feather bed. But they agreed to take it, and, being fatigued, retired early.

In a few minutes Jones was sound asleep, but, try as he might, Jenks couldn't "drop off."

At two in the morning Jones was awakened by a violent nudge in the solar plexus. "What's the matter?" he growled. "Get up!" was the reply. "It's half time!" "Half-time? What are you talking about? This isn't a cup-tie!" "No, but it's my turn to sleep on that feather!"

CHURCHES SLOWLY GAINING GROUND

United States Census Department Gives Out Some Interesting Religious Statistics

Washington, D.C., June 4.—Church growth in the United States has been greater than the increase in population between the years 1900 and 1905, according to the special census report on the census of religious bodies for 1906, now in press.

In the principal cities of the country the growth both in the number of religious organizations and communicants, was greater in the years mentioned than the increase in population, while in the area outside the principal cities, the rate of increase in the number of new churches established was approximately the same as the rate of population increase, although in the number of communicants the increase in the outside area, as in the cities, was in excess of that in population.

Out of every 1,000 persons in the 160 principal cities of the country that is, those which have a population of more than 25,000—there were 4% church members, while for the area outside these cities there were 3%, and for the entire country there were 3%.

As compared with 1890, the report shows a gain of ninety communicants in each 1,000 of population for the principal cities and a gain of fifty-one outside of them.

SECULAR CONCERT GREAT SUCCESS

Choir of All Saints Church. Under Mr. Barford, Gave a Splendid Programme

The secular concert by the choir of All Saints' Church has come to be looked upon as one of the principal events of the musical year in Edmonton. Last evening at the Empire Theatre a crowded house greeted Mr. Barford and his associates, and the reputation which they made for themselves in other seasons was thoroughly sustained. The fact that for three successive years they have won the shield for the best large choir in the province at the Alberta Musical Festival indicates how consistent their work has been. The choruses last evening included two that were features of previous programmes, "The Bells of St. Michael's Tower" and "When Allansdale goes a Hunting," both of which were superbly given.

The other two double numbers with the full choir included Wainwright's extremely beautiful "Soft Winds" and Pini's "Shepherds All and Midland Fair," to which the same description very correctly applies. As in other years, Miss Pinckson's songs were rapidly received. It is doubtful if she ever sang better, which is saying a good deal. She gave Lehmann's "Indian Love Song" with rare feeling and grace, and her duet with Mr. Turner, "The Day is Done," was the encore. "O! This We Two Were Maying," was probably the favorite number of the evening. Miss Landowne gave with spirit that splendid patriotic song of Elgar's, "Land of Hope and Glory." Mr. Turner's "Dumblum Day" brought an enthusiastic encore. Mr. Griffiths sang "The Trumpeter" and confirmed the good impression which he has always made with Edmonton audiences.

GERMAN CLOSELY ALLIED TO AUSTRIA

Act Together in Everything—Italy May Drop Out of the Triple Alliance

Berlin, June 4.—Signs are not wanting according to gossip in high circles, that Italy will drop out of the triple alliance when the present agreement expires. If she does, the idea here is that the alliance between Germany and Austria will be drawn even closer, and so far as the balance of Europe is concerned, they will constitute one power for either offense or defense. In fact there is ground for belief that such an understanding now exists between Berlin and Vienna that practically binds the two great Germanic powers as firmly as though there was organic union and that it was due to the understanding that Austria ventured the Bosnia-Herzegovina crisis. The knowledge of this alliance is probably what prevented Russia and other powers from going beyond an accidental protest.

WAITED LONG BUT WAS WORTH WHILE

Englishman Got the Homestead He Wanted After Waiting Fifty-Five Hours

HOLIDAY MADE IT LONGER

Got There Two O'Clock Thursday Morning and Had to Wait all Day Friday

After waiting at the door of the Land Office since two o'clock Thursday morning, Robert Henley, a young Englishman, filed on the homestead that was his own particular choice.

When Henley took up his position at the door so early last Thursday morning, he thought that his vigil would be ended yesterday morning at nine o'clock. But yesterday was the King's birthday, and so the Land Office was not opened. This meant another twenty-four hours' wait for the young man, but he was game and stayed right with the unpleasant job. It wasn't much of a holiday for Robert. He seldom moved more than a few feet from the chair in the doorway, as at any moment any passer-by might have popped into first place, and then his long wait would have been for nothing.

Fifty-five hours is a long wait, but Mr. Henley thinks that it was not too long to secure the choice bit of land that he wanted. He came out to Canada about six years ago, and for some time past has been in the employ of the Hudson's Bay Company.

AN ILLUSION SHATTERED

Another illusion shattered! Novelists hitherto have relied a good deal on the hero's firm set, determined jaw. Wilbur Wright's jaw, Shackleton's jaw, Blériot's jaw, have all come in for their meed of admiration, but here comes Dr. Cole Newton, a London surgeon, who says that square jaws and determined minds in men are no capricious gifts of nature, but simply the result of proper feeding and a consequent healthy set of teeth. "If you wish your children to grow up to men and women of determined jaw and strong character, teach them to use their teeth on tough solid food, and to avoid spoils," the doctor says. Steady mastication permits the teeth to develop the jaw.
